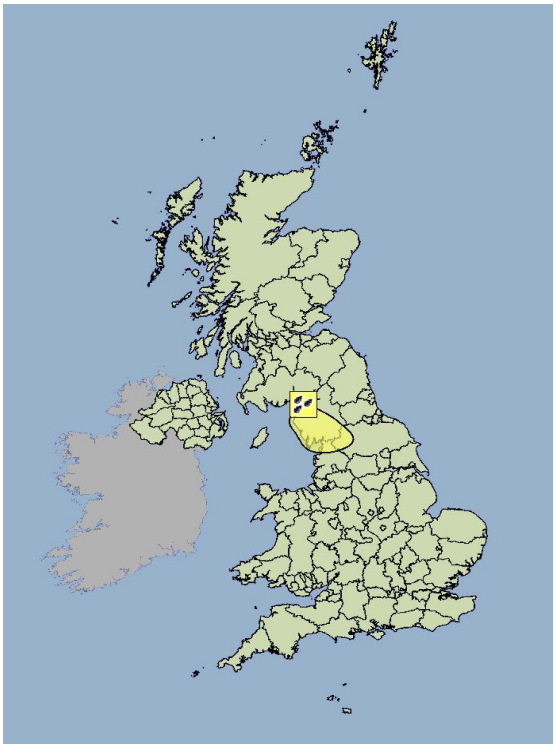
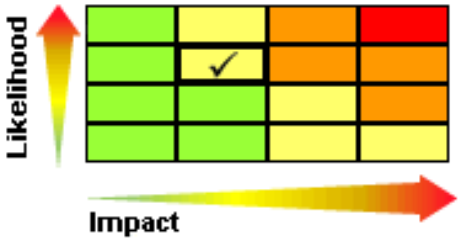
National Severe Weather Warning Service





Chief Forecasters Assessment
A band of rain is expected across Northern England through Friday, lingering overnight into Saturday. Rain is expected to be heavy and persistent at times over the high ground of Cumbria, north Lancashire and the west of North Yorkshire. Rainfall totals are likely to build up to 50 mm over the high ground with as much as 70 mm possible over the most exposed hills. Low lying areas are expected to see much lower rainfall amounts.

Whilst these totals are not unusual for the time of year after recent heavy rain these totals may lead to some impacts.

The Met Office have issued a Yellow Warning of Rain

Valid from 10:30 on Fri, 13th Oct 2017 until 10:00 on Sat, 14th Oct 2017

Heavy and at times persistent rain is expected during Friday.

Bus and train services will probably be affected with journey times taking longer. Spray and flooding on roads is also probable. Flooding of a few homes and business is possible.

This is an update to extend the warning over parts of North Lancashire and N Yorkshire as well as extending the warning through to Saturday morning.
